City man files suit against snow piling

HARRY SMITH
Staff writer

The snow may be gone for now, but when it comes slipping on ice, climbing over piles of packed snow and walking in the streets is something people can contend with.

Charleston resident Charlie Goodman decided, rather than complain, he would do something about it.

Goodman found an ordinance in the Charleston Code that makes it unlawful to place "injurious material on (public) thoroughfares." The ordinance prohibits "allowing" an injurious material to remain on a thoroughfare.

Goodman interpreted the ordinance to include snow that had been shoveled by businesses onto sidewalks, preventing their use, and filed a "citizen's complaint" against Hook's Drugs, 420 W. Lincoln

It was of the impression I could file a class action complaint (against all businesses), but you can only file individual actions," Goodman said.

Goodman, representing himself Friday in Coles County Court and armed with pictures as evidence, complained that business owners were shoveling snow from their parking lots and placing it in piles on sidewalks, thus making it impossible for people to walk without walking on the road.

However, Associate Judge Ashton Waller ruled Goodman didn't have sufficient evidence for a viable cause in the case. Waller didn't believe there was not enough proof that Hook's Drugs had broken a law to proceed with the suit.

After the decision, Goodman said the ruling was "ridiculous." He also said he plans to circulate petitions supporting either creating a new ordinance or amend the current ordinance to include snow.

"The judge interpreted the ordinance differently," Goodman said. Goodman also said Charleston City Attorney Tony Sunderman told him the city would look into the problem.

Schnepper expected to alter plea Monday

STEVE SMITH
Staff writer

Clark Schnepper, the former Eastern student charged with battery for allegedly handcuffing a female woman to a stairwell, has indicated he will plead guilty to the charge Monday, a Coles County prosecuting attorney said.

Schnepper, 21, may not stand trial Monday as scheduled. "(Schnepper) will apparently plead guilty. After this he will be given a sentence," said prosecuting attorney Avery Gerstein.

Schnepper's hearing is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. in Coles County Circuit Court, said Gerstein. The guilty plea would be a reversal of Schnepper's initial plea of not guilty.

The former Eastern junior dropped out of school after he was charged with battery, a misdemeanor, in connection with the handcuffing.

Following an Oct. 1 "Pimp and Whore" theme function between the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity and Phi Sigma Kappa sorority, a member of the sorority told police she had been handcuffed, while nude, to a stairwell and left for several hours.

Schnepper, a member of the fraternity, pleaded guilty to the charge in October and requested a trial. The case was scheduled to appear before a jury court Monday.

The charge of battery carries a maximum of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Eastern's Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, 1509 S. Second St., where the party took place, had its charter revoked by its national chapter following the incident.

Senate rejuvenates art discount bill

By ERIC WEDEKING
Government editor

Former Student Senator Grahame Wilkin is trying to reincarnate a senate-sponsored art supply discount bill put before the administration more than three months ago.

Wilkin, who is presently serving as Ford Hall president, is reintroducing the art discount subject after it was dropped by Union Area Head Bill Clark.

The bill requests Eastern "create a student discount card for declared art majors, for the use of art supplies in the Union Bookstore." Wilkin, an art major himself, is requesting a 20 percent discount for art majors.

The bill states the bookstore "has prices significantly higher than other stores in Coles County" and "art majors should not have to travel to Champaign, St. Louis or Chicago for their art supplies."

"Clark is the one that decides," Wilkin said, adding that Glenn

Williams, vice president for student affairs said the idea was a "good one and to give it a try."

The art discount bill was debated by the senate last September before passed Oct. 8, and has been before Clark since then.

The debate centered around the bill excluding students with different majors, and a fear that a price mark-up created by the discount would increase overall costs at the bookstore.

Student Body President Mike Madigan said last October he "would get a discount for others" if students of other majors wanted a discount if the art discount was approved.

About a month after the bill passed, Wilkin resigned his senate seat and was unable to follow-up on his bill.

"We had other things to do and it wasn't my intent" to bring the subject up after Wilkin resigned, Clark said.

Wilkin said, "I resigned because of the Ford Hall Council.

We were not getting enough things done and I was spread too thin."

Clark said Wilkin failed to follow-up a request to supply Clark with results from an art major-survey Wilkin conducted.

Wilkin said he polled all of Eastern's 225 art majors last semester and found few purchasing supplies at Eastern.

"He (Wilkin) was supposed to meet with me with the supporting information," Clark said. Wilkin never met with Clark until a few days ago.

Wilkin compiled survey figures to show the bookstore wouldn't lose money, but make money from increased sales if a discount were created.

According to Wilkin's survey, 60 percent of students polled said they do not currently purchase supplies at the bookstore.

However, he added that from the 225 survey respondents, all but seven said they would buy

State/Nation/World*Filipinos to vote on constitution

MANILA, Philippines—Filipinos decide whether to accept President Corazon Aquino's proposed constitution Monday in a crucial test of her strength after last week's failed coup. The military put 79 battalions on alert to prevent trouble.

Her government expected overwhelming approval of the 20,000-word document.

On the eve of the vote, Manila police said they arrested two men and seized 120 sticks of dynamite after getting a tip about a plot to disrupt the balloting.

The plebiscite marks the first time Aquino, 54, has gone to the electorate for a show of support since the "people power revolution" swept her into office in February 1986. That uprising forced Ferdinand E. Marcos to abandon the presidency after 20 years and flee into exile in Hawaii.

The new charter was completed in October by a 49-member commission she appointed, despite opposition from both leftist and right-wing critics.

Senate Intelligence Committee unable to resolve Iran testimony

WASHINGTON (AP)—In assessing White House involvement in secret arms sales to Iran, the Senate Intelligence Committee was unable to resolve conflicts in testimony between former national security adviser Robert C. McFarlane and others in President Reagan's inner circle.

The best known conflict involves testimony by McFarlane and White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan on whether the president gave "oral" approval, in advance, for Israeli shipments of U.S. arms to Iran.

McFarlane has said Regan did give the project his verbal blessing. But the chief of staff has testified the president did not.

The committee said McFarlane, testifying in private, said the arms transfer was supported by Regan and by Vice President George Bush and by CIA Director William Casey.

McFarlane said it was opposed by the Secretary of State George Schultz, who earlier called the idea "perverse," and the Secretary of Defense Caspar W. Weinberger, who had dismissed it as "absurd."

"Although there is no written record of decision at this time, McFarlane testified the president informed Schultz, Weinberger, and Casey of his decision," the committee said.

An earlier draft of the committee report, which was prepared late last year while the president was still in Republican hands but was not officially authorized for release, said McFarlane's testimony was much more specific and convincing than Regan's.

callers have earned 40 percent of their $5 million goal.

Telefund gains 40 percent of goal

By MIKE HELENTHAL
Staff writer

Eastern's 10th Decade Campaign, which is expected to net the university $5 million dollars by 1989, has reached about 40 percent of its goal, said Eastern President Stanley Rives.

The campaign, which started in December 1984, is intended to give the school's six colleges extra money for student scholarships and faculty development, Rives said. Alumni are being encouraged to make donations for the campaign.

The drive for money is called the 10th Decade Campaign because the school, which was founded in 1895, has entered its 10th decade of existence.

Each of the six colleges in the university schedule different nights during the school year to hold a "telefund," calling former Eastern students from their respective schools to get pledges for money, Rives said. Then pledge cards are sent to those who promised a donation.

"When we began our campaign in December 1984 we had only 4 percent of alumni donating," Rives said. Now, two years later, that figure has tripled to 12 percent. Rives said he believes "that kind of involvement by our alumni is great."

He said he feels confident that the program will reach the $5 million goal. Daniel Thornburgh, EIU Foundation executive officer seems equally optimistic.

"I'm very pleased with the growth" of the program, Thornburgh said, agreeing with Rives that it is good to have "established contact with old alumni."

Thornburgh said the money made from the Telefund will be invested locally by the Foundation and each year be distributed to the respective schools.

The College of Education is in the middle of their annual telefund this week and have already received $4,150 in donations during the first three nights, said Earl Doughty, an Eastern education professor and chair of the college's telefund.

According to Doughty, 6,500 of the 7,500 alumni will probably send a donation. He said that although the average donation is $25, "we get a lot of $5 and $10" donations and "then, we'll get a guy who gives $250."

The telefund uses 10 telephones each night and Doughty said since the college has the phones for only eight nights throughout the semester, each volunteer caller will have to make about 100 calls a night in order to go through the list of names.

Last year the College of Education's phone bill for the telefund totaled $1,543. This year Doughty said he expects the bill to come to about $1,750.

He said after the expense bills are paid for, the College of Education intends to use 90 percent of the money for scholarships and 10 percent for faculty development.

Doughty added that faculty development funds are used for expenses for professors going to seminars or to give a paper at a convention.

Experts meet, discuss sound in broadcasts

By MELANIE ANDERSON
Staff writer

Several experts in the news broadcasting field met Saturday with students and faculty at a regional meeting of the Illinois News Broadcasters Association to demonstrate the production of good radio and television news broadcasts.

The topic of the day was sound, how you use it and how you make it what you want it to be. "Sound will not rescue a badly written newscast," stated Frank Beaman, formerly of WBBM-AM in Chicago.

Sound will not rescue a badly written newscast.

—Frank Beaman
former newscaster
WBBM-AM Chicago

Beaman, who now designs broadcast equipment for Scribe Recorder in Decatur, said broadcasting is all about sound. "Sound and tape can tell the story, but there is no excuse for cutting dull tape," he said, adding that he deals primarily with radio, but his awareness of a good solid piece has no end.

"You have to be concise," he said, "but don't take away the meaning." Beaman said that producers edit stories to clean them up, but those deep breaths that are exuded are what makes the story real.

Jim Mageski, news photographer for WCIA-TV in Champaign, discussed the differences between radio and television. "In radio, you can create the images in your mind. But in television, you are told what it should be," Mageski said.

He then used a monitor to demonstrate the various angles used to create the ultimate sound. One example that he showed was the Homer teacher strike.

The strike tape showed how effectively the sound of the teacher's chants made the picture speak for itself. Eastern graduate Molly Hall, also with WCIA-TV, said "get more involved with your subject matter, it makes all the difference."

Abdul Lateef, Eastern political science instructor, also spoke to the group about media coverage of the IranContra arms affair. Lateef said that terrorists in Middle-East countries target Americans for their attacks to attract media attention.

Senior seminars give students more insight

A recent proposal to scrap Eastern's senior seminar program is one of the most short-sighted ideas to come along in quite a while.

Mike Ashack, Eastern's student Board of Governors representative, made the proposal at the Jan. 21 Student Senate meeting. He told the senators he had spoken with BOG Chancellor Robert Pringle about eliminating the senior seminar and recommended the Academic Affairs committee write a letter to Eastern officials and the BOG suggesting a "change" in the senior seminar program.

Ashack's rationale for this baffling proposal was not exactly convincing: He received complaints from students who thought the seminars were a waste of time and effort saying the class would not help them in their careers.

This line of thinking is indicative of the turn higher education has taken in recent years. There was a time when the primary purpose of attending college was to get a broad, comprehensive knowledge. Now, instead of becoming educated, the idea is to become marketable.

Subjects like history, philosophy, literature—fields that were once staples of higher education—are now often met with questions like, "What are you going to do with a degree in that?"

This seems to be the argument Ashack is making in trying to dissolve the senior seminar program. Sure, a business major may be more educated if he has a background in some sort of science or liberal art, but if it won't help secure a job, why do it?

The whole idea behind the senior seminar program is to defeat this type of thinking. The program is based on the principle that there is more to education than learning what you need to know to get a job. Education should be not only a means, but an end in itself.

By suggesting the elimination of senior seminars—for no better reason than that students don't want to waste time with anything that won't impress the personnel department at IBM—Ashack is attempting to transform this institution of higher learning into nothing more than a trade school. We're counting on the Student Senate, the administration and the BOG to stand firm against this proposal.

How a mere book will heal Tammy

My friend Lisa is concerned about Tammy Bakker.

You know—the smiling, singing, sniffling other half of "Jim and Tammy," the late-night religious program that comes on the same time as Star Trek.

For about two weeks now, the entire following of "Jim and Tammy"—and I suspect anyone who's even remotely familiar with the program—has noticed that tearful Tammy hasn't been on the show.

She has pneumonia.

Granted, this isn't an average, run-of-the-mill illness, and I'm not trying to make fun. In fact, I don't even consider myself a fan of "Jim and Tammy," but I'm still pulling for Tammy to get well.

Lisa feels the same way—although she said she's a tad skeptical of what "Jim and Tammy" consider to be the key to Tammy's "healing."

Oh, sure, they all pray for Tammy, which is cool. I mean, what is a religion-oriented show without a few good prayers thrown in throughout the course of an hour? Just another talk show, right?

But no, "Jim and Tammy" have transcended that level.

How do they do it? Aside from their prayers, religious topics and Tammy's crying jags, what sets them apart from the average talk show? And for that matter, what makes them more than just another bunch of Bible thumpers like the rest of the gang?

Before, I couldn't have given a definitive answer to this question. But now I think they've found the solution—not that it's too original, but they believe it will put Tammy on the road to recovery.

Hallelujah! "Jim and Tammy" have a book.

Not the one you're thinking of, but one they've put together—probably before Tammy took ill, but I'm willing to bet this pneumonia is helping their plan right along.

The reason why? They're selling their book for $100!

And if you buy this book, it's going to help Tammy—it's going to make Tammy feel better and it's probably even going to heal Tammy's pneumonia.

Personally, I can't help thinking it will. If I were so the thought of millions of people pouring in that kind of money would easily make my hospital stay a lot more pleasant.

But I have a hard time with this healing thing as it is, especially when one of my instructors showed me in class how they all do the leg thing. You know, one where the guy's right leg is longer than his left and with the "laying of hands" his legs mysteriously become the same length.

Although they're striving for originality in this on the whole "Jim and Tammy" thing smacks of Orin Roberts' latest scam. That man is bordering on the lunatic fringe in his latest scheme to raise—what is it?—$8 million before—when is it?—March 31, which time he was told by—what is it?—a divine message from God himself that he is going to die.

But I'm on to his plan, and that of "Jim and Tammy" as well, because I have a similar dilemma. I need to raise a considerable sum of money myself, or else I think I, too, will die.

Now no divine message has told me that, but I really think if I don't come up with enough money to go to Florida for spring break, I will die. So what makes my trauma any different from Orin's? Or, for that matter, what separates the daily financial dilemmas of any college student from that of "Jim and Tammy"?

Not a whole lot. Except that they'll all raise the money they need to "live," while I may be doomed to spend my spring break week in Illinois.

Maybe I'm just not crying enough.

EIU Foundation dragging its heels

Editor:

I thought I'd take some time to let the student body of Eastern know they are being taken for a ride.

The EIU Foundation has passed a recommendation to divest its holdings in companies doing business in apartheid South Africa. This process is to be executed "in a prudent and orderly manner over a period not to exceed 24 months."

Please don't misinterpret my stand on this issue. I am very much in favor of divestment.

But what the Foundation has done here is pull the wool over the students' eyes by more-or-less saying, "Let's get the students off our back by passing what appears to be a divestment recommendation, when in reality all we are doing is giving ourselves two years to sit back and let companies do our divesting for us!"

This recommendation is a cop-out. How many successful investors need two years to make "prudent and orderly" investment portfolio decisions? I'm sure Harris Bank and Trust can perform the task a little more expediently. Wake up and smile the coffee Foundation members. We are students of an institution of higher education. Treat us as such by not blatantly insulting our intelligence.

I charge the Foundation to take a more sincere stand on this issue. Recommend to divest as soon as possible. You have acknowledged the moral injustice. Put your money where your mouth is.

Michael P. Madigan
Student Body President

City may get highway funds

By CHRYSTAL PHILPOTT
City editor

Charleston may be the recipient of $75,000 in federal funds if a bill authorizing the federal highway and transit funds for 1987 passes.

The bill, which has already been approved by the House of Representatives, still has to be voted on by the Senate.

If passed, the bill would authorize about $450 million for highway projects in Illinois.

Locally, Charleston is slated to receive $75,000 for land acquisition for north of Cedar Drive to University Drive.

A spokesperson from U.S. Rep. Terry Bruce's office, D-Olney, said the Illinois Department of Transportation will be in charge of allocating the $450 million.

"Normally with highway programs each state is allocated a certain amount. The state (Illinois Department of Transportation) is responsible for deciding how the money will be used," the spokesperson said.

Jim Comingore, program development engineer for IDOT's district five, said areas for work are chosen based on information turned into the Springfield IDOT office.

"We look at the roadway conditions, the number of accidents that occur (on various roadways) and the amount of traffic (on roads to decide which areas get funding)," Comingore said.

"We have a multi-year program for five years worth of work," he said.

Comingore said once program suggestions have been made by IDOT for the next five years, the governor announces the program.

The problem arises, Comingore said, in that the last federal funding bill, which the state needs in order to fund the program, expired in October. The state needs the new bill passed in order to continue work, he said.

"We do have the projects identified that the money would be used on. Hopefully something will break soon," Comingore said.

Besides deciding on how money is allocated, IDOT also arranges for the work to be done.

The spokesperson from Bruce's office also said that although the state would do the work, most areas to receive funding have already been notified.

"Most local officials know that there are projects planned in their area," the spokesperson said.

Public Works Commissioner Wayne Lanman, however, said he has not been notified by the state of any money for the area north of Cedar Drive to University Drive.

After talking with various personnel in his department Lanman said, "The only thing we could think of is the state is going to improve Fourth Street. I've had four meetings with the state on that already. That's probably it (the area referred to as north of Cedar Drive to University Drive).

Second vice president candidate on campus Monday

By AMY CARR
Administration editor

The second of four candidates for the position of provost and vice president for academic affairs at Eastern will be on campus Monday and Tuesday for a series of interviews.

Donna Arlton, dean of the college of health and human services at the University of Northern Colorado, will field questions from various campus leaders Monday.

In addition to her current position,

Arlton has held such positions as dean of the school of nursing and gerontology at the University of Northern Colorado and chair of the department of nursing and health care management at Metropolitan State College, Denver, Colo.

She has authored and co-authored 20 publications and numerous reports in her field and has made over 50 presentations.

In addition, Arlton has chaired many national, regional and state committees, councils and conferences. She has also consulted in Brazil and Mexico.

About an hour has been designated for students and staff members who would like to question the candidate at 1 p.m. Monday in the 1895 room of the University Union.

Arlton will also be questioned Tuesday by the Council on Academic Affairs, the Council of Deans, the Council on Graduate Studies, the Council on Teacher Education and the Faculty Senate.

Recommendations from these groups will be considered by the 13-member search committee, which will make its final recommendation to Eastern President Stanley Rives.

Arlton is interviewing to replace Edgar Schick, who's resignation becomes effective no later than April 15. Schick has yet not specified his future plans.

City from page 1

Charleston are covered with snow. Only Eastern shovels the sidewalks right after it snows," Goodman said. Seeing students and elderly people walking in the streets to get around "snow mountains" is what prompted Goodman to file the complaint. "I would think the students would have voiced complaints about it," he added. Goodman, who is originally from Chicago, said in that city the police would immediately cite people who block sidewalks with snow.

Goodman said he spoke to Charleston Mayor Murray Choate about the problem. Originally Choate said the city would do it's best to solve the problem, he said.

After talking to the mayor a second time, Goodman said Choate was in favor of Goodman filing suit. Choate also mentioned it would be a good idea to circulate petitions, Goodman said.

supplies from the bookstore if a discount was offered.

Wilkin said his figures indicated a projected increase in art supply sales of 24 percent if a discount is made.

Wilkin's bill also says "the average art major in the 1985-86 school year had to pay from $90 to $140 per semester" for art supplies.

With survey results in hand, Wilkin said he (with student government support) resubmitted the bill for Clark's scrutiny.

Study workshop slated

By CRAIG EDWARDS
Activities editor

Students who attend a study skills workshop at 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the Union addition Martinsville Room will have the opportunity to sharpen a tool vital for college survival—studying.

Marjorie Hanft-Martone, a counselor at Eastern's Counseling Center, is going to start the first part of the workshop with a questionnaire. "This will help them evaluate their study habits," Hanft-Martone said.

The workshop will focus on changing bad study habits. "Students need to take a look at what they currently do and what needs to be changed in order to do it better," she added.

Hanft-Martone said students also need to learn to budget time. "I will be handing out blank schedule forms for weekly planning," she said.

Besides managing time, Hanft-Martone said effective note-taking plays a big part in getting good grades. "Students need to learn how to listen in class and take useful notes," she added.

The second part of the workshop Tuesday will deal with preparing for tests. "There are different ways to study for different tests," Hanft-Martone said, noting students should study differently for objective and essay tests.

Elway, Meckenburg lead AFC in Pro Bowl

HONOLULU (AP)—John Elway threw for the game's only touchdown, and Denver Bronco teammate Karl Mecklenburg spearheaded a smothering defense to lead the AFC to a 10-6 victory over the NFC in Sunday's Pro Bowl football game.

Elway, who threw for 304 yards in the Broncos' 39-20 Super Bowl loss to the New York Giants the previous Sunday, put the AFC ahead to stay with a 10-yard touchdown pass to Todd Christensen of the Los Angeles Raiders on the final play of the first quarter.

That touchdown—and a 26-yard field goal by New England's Tony Franklin just before halftime—were set up when the NFC's return specialist, rookie Vai Sikahema of St. Louis, fumbled the ball away on punt returns.

The victory halted, at least temporarily, the NFC's domination of the AFC in recent post-season play. The National Conference had won five of the last seven NFL all-star games and five of the last six Super Bowls, the last three by wide margins.

The AFC reduced the NFC's lead in the Pro Bowl series to 10-7.

Seattle's Fredd Young recovered the first fumble by Sikahema, who had turned the ball over just twice during the regular season, at the NFC 17 to set up the touchdown.

Miami rookie linebacker John Offerdahl fell on the second Sikahema fumble at the AFC 44, setting up Franklin's field goal and a 10-0 lead.

Rivers caps Notre Dame rally over North Carolina

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame continued its mastery over top-ranked teams, beating North Carolina 60-58 Sunday.

It was David Rivers rather than any luck of the Irish that saw Notre Dame beat the No. 1 team at home for the fifth time in 13 years.

Rivers, who scored all of his 14 points in the second half, had a field goal and two free throws in the final 1:06 to lead the Fighting Irish, who rallied from a 16-point first-half deficit.

North Carolina, which had a 16-game winning streak snapped, played without leading scorer Kenny Smith, who underwent arthroscopic knee surgery on Saturday and is expected to miss two weeks.

The Fighting Irish closed with 55-54 on a field goal by Gary Voce with 1:36 to play. Voce, who led the Irish with 15 points and rebounds, missed a free throw to complete a three-point play. Notre Dame retained possession when the ball was knocked out of bounds by a Tar Heel.

Rivers' jumper with 1:06 left gave the Irish their first lead since early in the game.

Miller takes tourney title

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Miller, the Golden Boy of another golfing era, rolled back the years with a come-from-behind 66 that brought him a one-stroke victory Sunday over Payne Stewart in the Pebble Beach National Pro-Am.

"It's been a long time since I was able to come down the last fairway in contention," said Miller, 39, whose last previous triumph came in the 1983 Inverrary Classic.

"This is my favorite place golf in the whole world, and my favorite course," he said of the picturesque Pebble Beach golf links that stretch 6,799 yards along the cliffs and crags of Carmel Bay.

"To be able to get in contention, then make that putt on 18, it's a great thrill for me, a dream come true," said Miller, who came from five shots off the pace in the brilliant, warm sunshine that bathed the Monterey Peninsula.

The 23rd victory of his career came on a 278 total, 10 under par, and was worth $108,000 from the total purse of $600,000.

of 6-8¾ was set by Bob Cervenka in 1977.

"That's an outstanding freshman record," Moore said, citing the varsity record is 6-11¾.

"He's not 100 percent healthy either," Moore said. Hamman has been bothered by an ailment to his take-off foot.

Besides Hamman and Maton, the Panthers took six first places in the remaining 14 events of the non-scoring event.

In the shot put, Jeff Gennarelli threw a personal best (54-¼) only to be beaten by Dan Matas, who threw the shot 54-6½.

Matas also placed second in the 35-pound weight throw (49-2¾), with Jeff Rolson placing third (46-6) while Jay Flatt and Gennarelli placed fourth and fifth respectively.

Robert Flot won the 60-yard high hurdles (7.78), with teammate Darren Barber taking second (7.80).

In the 440-yard dash, Rod Ferguson led the Panthers to a first-place finish in the time of 51.33, as Scott Adamson made a dash out of the final turn to overtake Craig Bookter of Parkland for second place with the time of 51.7.

Panther runners Don Johnson, Fred Neal, Mark Heise and Mike Young finished second, third, fourth and fifth in 880-yard run respectively.

Eastern's mile relay and distance medley teams also took firsts.

er," Miller said of Saturday's contest. "Tonight, everything was going for us.

"When you have a young basketball team, it could go either way. I never expect anything in this game to be easy. It's a struggle out there," he added.

Going into the Valparaiso game, Samuels plans to call on the youngsters again, with the fifth position yet to be decided.

However, he said junior Norm Evans is likely to start at point guard.

"We need him as our point guard. David Paul is not a point guard," Samuels said.

Valparaiso comes off a tough 72-38 conference loss to Southwest Missouri. The Crusaders are 10-6 and 2-3 in the league.

"The kids that we're counting on to play the major roles for us obviously didn't (Saturday)," Samuels said.

"We've got to try somebody else." He did say, however, that is is important to give the original starters playing time also.

Swimmers have long weekend

By JOE LEWNARD

Staff writer

Two big losses were the result of Saturday's dual meet as Eastern's swim teams fell to the Leathernecks of Western Illinois University.

Both teams were controlled by the dominating Western swimmers, with the men losing 123-86 and the women 120-83. The men won just three events and the women won two.

Senior Scott Conover won the 1,000-yard freestyle in 10:12.9, junior Tim Schnittker won the 100-yard freestyle in 55.5 seconds and the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Conover, Greg Young, Jay Hunt and Sam Van Scoyoc won in 3:27.4.

Sophomore Carolyn Guditus had the only win in a swimming event for the women, as she won the 200-yard freestyle in 2:05.9. Freshman Lisa Rank won the one-meter diving event with 141.9 points to give the women their only other win.

Eastern coach Ray Padovan said the swimmers were controlled throughout the meet by Western, and added that he didn't feel his swimmers did particularly well in the meet.

Padovan said he has been pleased that Conover has been swimming well the past three weeks.

"Every week he (Conover) has been going a little bit faster," Padovan said.

Schnittker, who hasn't swam in the 100-yard butterfly this season, said it was good to swim in a different event for a change of pace. Schnittker has been swimming the 200-yard breast stroke and the 200-yard individual medley this season.

Schnittker said Western was quite competitive in the breast stroke, and neither he nor freshman John Ryan were able to place in the event.

UNI bombs Panthers, forces lineup changes

FRANK POLICH / Staff photographer

Eastern guard Jay Taylor (24) rips down a rebound for the Panthers' during Saturday's 96-66 loss to Northern Iowa. Eastern's demoralizing defeat has prompted coach Rick Samuels to change his starting lineup for Monday's AMCU-8 game at Valparaiso.

By JOHN STROUD
Associate sports editor

An embarrassing 96-66 loss to Northern Iowa for Eastern's men's basketball team Saturday prompted coach Rick Samuels to shuffle the lineup in search for some answers.

Those answers may come in the form of young players like freshmen David Paul and Cass White, and sophomore Brian Murphy, who played most of the second half Saturday.

The loss dumps the struggling Panthers into the cellar of the AMCU-8 with an 0-5 record in the league. Eastern falls to 5-11 overall. The purple Panthers of Northern Iowa even their conference mark at 3-3 while going to 8-10 on the season.

Eastern goes on the road to Valparaiso Monday for another conference matchup.

"We're not competitive," Samuels said. "Our first group is not competitive." He then added, the first group "is no longer our first group."

After opening the game with an 8-4 lead, the Panthers completely fell apart at the seams, failing to respond to defensive changes and hitting on only 10 of 23 field-goal attempts in the first half.

Northern Iowa took advantage of the situation, dominating the Eastern defense underneath to build a 43-23 lead by the half.

"We don't respond to changes in defense...we stand around and look," Samuels said. "We don't rise to the occasion and stop anybody defensively."

"I could go on and on," he added. "There're just a lot of things we won't do right now."

So Samuels benched the starting five of Jay Taylor, Norm Evans, Tony Hemphill, Dave Vance and Mike West. Starting the second half were White, Paul, Murphy, Jerry Strickland and Vince Macciocchi.

Northern Iowa maintained a 20-25 point lead throughout the second half as the Panthers just managed to hold their own. A pair of free throws by Maurice Newby gave the purple Panthers a 30-point advantage 79-49 with 6:02 remaining in the game. Newby had 20 points for Northern Iowa while Greg McDermott led with 24 points and 13 rebounds.

"They played courageously in a tough situation," Samuels said of the second group. "Especially David Paul."

Paul, playing the point-guard position, nailed four of five three-pointers on the evening to lead all Panther scorers with 16 points. Strickland added 14 points.

"He (Paul) comes in, and I ask him to take the three-point shot, and he is a good long-range shooter and he rises to the occasion," Samuels said.

Not certain just exactly where Samuels will take things in the given situation, Paul is glad to have the opportunity to play.

"I feel good about it," Paul said. "I've been waiting. We sit on the bench and we get hungry watching the starters. I just hope the guys who come off the bench can come in and help the starters."

Paul thinks incorporating the three-point shot into the game plan might be the answer to opening up the inside for Eastern.

"If you start shooting the three pointer, it forces the defense to come out and it opens it up a little bit," Paul said. "Then we can get (the ball) to the side, and that's what we need to do."

First-year Northern Iowa coach Eldon Miller is pleased that his young team has come on to play competitively.

"Every game has its own character," Miller said. (See UNI, page 11)

Lady Panthers stop UNI 81-70 Hamilton scores school-record 35 in victory

By MIKE FITZGERALD
Staff writer

Eastern guard Pat Hamilton set a school record by scoring 35 points to lead the Panthers to a 81-70 victory over Northern Iowa.

The record, formerly held by Toni Collins who scored 33 points against Illinois-Chicago in 1985, is also a career-high for the senior from Decatur-Eisenhower High School.

The victory raises the Panthers' record to 9-10 overall and 6-5 in the Gateway Conference, where Eastern is alone in fourth place.

After the Drake loss on Thursday, Hamilton felt she needed to play better in her last trip to the UNI-Dome.

"I didn't feel I played well at Drake, but I practiced well on Friday and felt good about Saturday's game," Hamilton said.

Hamilton and Eastern got off to a quick start against Northern Iowa as Hamilton scored 12 of Eastern's first 14 points of the first half.

"I tried to be a little more intense on defense and after I got my first steal, a snowball effect set in and stayed with me the rest of the game," Hamilton said.

The Panthers took a 43-31 lead into the locker room as Hamilton had 25 of those points.

"Her (Hamilton) performance was great. The reason she had such a great game was because her defensive intensity was way up," Eastern coach Bobbie Hilke said.

The rest of the Panthers also had a big role in the Eastern victory.

Centers Laura Mull and Brenda Webb combined for 30 points with Webb getting 16 and Mull 14 on 6-for-6 shooting from the field.

"I thought Laura started the game well for us and she was strong in the post. Brenda came in and did the same thing. We're really pleased to get 30 points out of our two post players," Hilke said.

Although guard Barb Perkes and forward Ann Brown had only six points between them, Perkes contributed nine assists and seven rebounds and Brown led Eastern with nine boards to propel the Panthers.

Forward Kerry Walsh came off the bench to score 10 points as Eastern's bench again made a significant contribution to the victory.

"Kerry made an amazing contribution," Hilke said. "She had been struggling all year with her shooting, but she came off the bench and hit five of seven shots."

"Not only that, but she helped direct the offense and played great perimeter defense," Hilke said.

The Panthers shot a blistering 58 percent from the field in the first half and finished with 54 percent for the game.

Eastern will host Illinois-Chicago in a non-conference game at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Lantz Gym.

Maton breaks another record in track meet

By BARRY BOTTINO
Staff Writer

For the second time in the last two weeks, junior middle distance man Jim Maton has set a school record.

Last week, Maton led the men's track team to Champaign where he set a school record in the 1,000-yard run and in doing so, qualified for the NCAA Indoor Nationals.

Friday night at Lantz Fieldhouse, Maton ran the 600-yard dash in a time of 1:10.88, surpassing the varsity record of Reggie Johnson (1:11) set in 1977.

"I continue to be impressed every week by Jim Maton," said 12th-year Panther head coach Neil Moore, who compared Maton to former Panther standout Paco Morera, who set the school record in the 880-yard run in 1976.

"He's from the same mold as Paco, but I think Jim is better. He's a take-charge type of guy," Moore said.

"He (Maton) is probably the best middle distance runner Eastern's ever had," Moore said.

The Panthers also had another record-setting performance Friday night.

Mike Hamman high-jumped 6-11 to set a freshman record. The previous freshman record was 6-10. (See MATON, page 11)
